ADMINISTRATION.....3

STUDENTS 5

This book is presented to you as a pictorial record of the activities and achievements of 1961-62 at Fremont High School. We, the GREGO Staff, hope your enjoyment of it will be in direct proportion to the many hours of work and thought which have made possible its publication. We wish to express our deep appreciation to all those who have helped us, but we are especially grateful to Mrs. Blackman, whose work was most vital.

Dedication

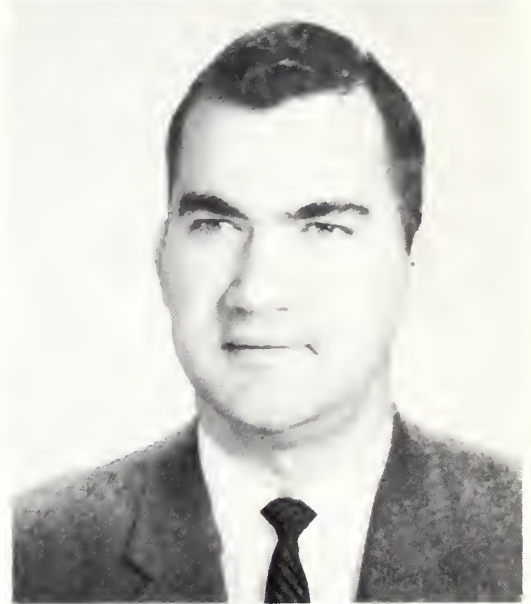

In grateful appreciation for your untiring efforts in our behalf, for the many hours you spent in preparing us for the adult world so that it wouldn't take us completely by surprise, but most of all for your warmth and understanding, the GREGO Staff proudly dedicates this 1962 edition to you, MR. RALPH WAINWRIGHT.

JR. high ACTIVITIES . . .

"Junior Varsity Champions"

Mr. Ralph Wainwright and Miss Justine Barnes—Junior Varsity Coaches.

Square dancing was part of the Eighth Graders' musical activities.

Eighth Grade comedy—"Salute to Booth Tarkington."

Annual Junior High Science Fair Exhibits.

The class trip included a tour of the battleship North Carolina.

The Eighth Graders met the unusual "Fort Fisher Hermit" on their trip.

Picnicing at Greenfield Park, Wilmington, North Carolina. (A cold girl finds warmth in Mr. Gurley's fishing pants.)

"Miss Anne" enjoys a moment of relaxation.

Science Fair exhibitions create work.

ELEANOR RACHEL CAVENAUGH

You hear her coming with a lot of noise.
She's a bundle of fun and solid joys.

PATRICIA DIANE (SUE) AYCOCK

Loves the twist, and boys, and so—
Never still, she'll go and go.

JANET YVONNE DAVIS

She's the singer, at books no falter.
Her greatest triumph: Rollin and Altar.

SPENCER MANARD (BUDDY) AYCOCK

Blond and fair, of mind quite sound,
He drums on anything around.

MARY JEAN (JEANNIE) HOOKS

A whiz at French, and math, and all-
She's bound for Meredith, and what a ball!

BRENDA GALE FULKERSON

She counted money like an eager bunny.
Her budget is right—nothing funny.

VERNIE NELL LANGLEY

On the surface, she might seem thick.
But underneath—her wit. My! how quick.

JUDITH ONEIDA (JUDY) HOOKS

Eyes a-flashing and teeth of pearl—
She'll argue and win! - this tall girl.

DIANA LEIGH PIKE

This one's quiet, like the widow black.
Snap at her and she'll snap right back.

BRENDA KAYE MOORING

At books there is no better lass.
At B. Y. U. she'll be first class.

KATHERINE MARIE (KAY) PIPPIN

A diploma? Oh, that's all right.
On a wedding ring she has her sight.

BILLY EVERETTE PATE

Books and lessons—a passing whim.
Basketball and girls and girls for him!

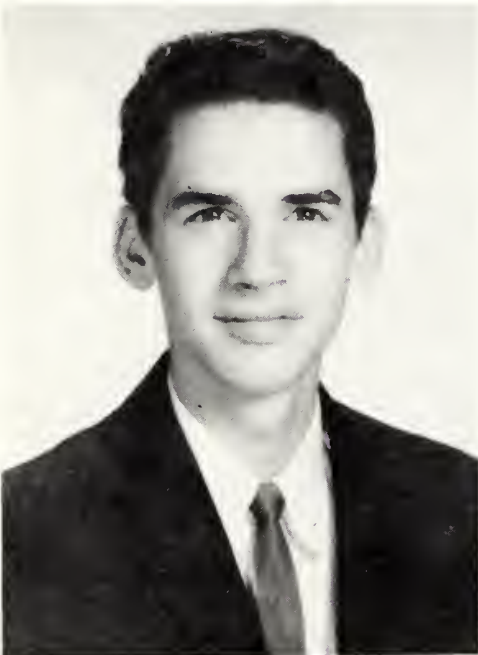

BETTY ALICE STANCIL

Says she's dumb—wants you to agree,
But never a job from which she'll flee.

DONALD WHITLEY (DON) SASSER

As a leader, he's up to the minute.
If there's trouble—he's surely in it.

WILMA JEAN TOLER

She's quite pretty; the class does agree.
"Beauty and brains" fits to a T.

FAY MARSH STEVENSON

Loves the dance, cha-cha or chottle.
Natural blond—not from a bottle.

Senior Directory

JAMES ANTHONY WHITWORTH

history

Seventeen seniors marched out of these halls on Friday night, June 1, 1962, with diplomas to testify to their satisfactory completion of twelve years of schooling. These seventeen are now young adults, who are ready for the responsibilities of life in a world of adults. Some will continue their education; others will take jobs; but all will assume a role in the helter-skelter world of 1962.

These seventeen are vastly different from the 45 boys and girls who one September day in 1950 skipped down the street or clambered off school buses to the first grade classroom. Under the able guidance of Mrs. Williams, we learned to read and write and do all those things that first graders do. We got many slaps in the process, but we made it to the highlight of the year, which was a picnic in the park of Fremont.

In spite of measles, whooping cough, mumps, chicken pox, colds, and flu we somehow were promoted to the second grade where Miss Short took over the responsibility of our education for the year 1951-52. Our little heads were packed with more learning but to ease the tension we took a train trip to Goldsboro. How excited we were as we were lifted on the train for that first train trip.

Then came September, 1953, and we found ourselves in a third grade classroom where Miss Whitehurst, who later that year became Mrs. Davis, wielded the heavy stick and lead us through a maze of reading, writing, 'rithmetic, science, spelling, art, and music. Somehow we did manage to learn those multiplication tables and to understand the mysteries of division.

Now much more mature than in the first grade, we found ourselves all of a sudden in the fourth grade with more problems of long division and a geography book which was very confusing. We showed our great art ability by our pictures of the Amazon River Valley, which Mrs. Mayo, our teacher, put on the bulletin board.

In our fifth year, we really felt a part of Fremont School as we marched down the hall on that exciting September day in 1955. It was much different from our clambering and scampering to the first grade class rooms. Miss Harper showed us plenty of excitement on our trip to Chapel Hill where we sat spellbound over an Easter program. This was the year we developed wings from studying birds so much. And those fractions! We worked so hard trying to figure them out. I wonder if everyone can remember how Miss Harper stressed cleanliness? I remember how disappointed we were everytime we opened the door, for there always had to be a paper towel in our hand to keep the germs off.

As half-grown we approached the sixth grade under the guidance of Mrs. Hartley in 1956 with the wonderful knowledge that we had only six more years to go. We spent many hours each week rattling off current events. Still not yet recovered from geography, we found ourselves pushed into studying a big, fat history book.

Still climbing and feeling much more grown-up at the same time, our class settled down for a year of hard work in the seventh grade. Miss Threlfall kept us busy. We studied and pretended to learn poetry along with the different kinds of poetry. We singled out punishments to our fellow classmates in our own make-believe court room where we got pleasure from trying people.

As we anxiously walked down the halls to our last year of elementary school in 1958, our steps became faster and faster for we were excited, thrilled, and happy to be so near to high school. We learned that year how important an education is, for "Miss" Ann drilled it constantly into our heads. It was a busy year and much to our regret we learned that we had to grow out of our laziness and start to work. A much glorious event which stands out in our minds is a trip to Raleigh. We visited the state prison, where we made sure we kept our distance from the prisoners. We enjoyed a visit, also, to the blind school. It gave us inspiration to work as hard as those students were working. Next our bus sped down the highway to the coliseum, then on to the governor's house. We were astonished to realize that we were actually in the home of a governor of North Carolina. With our excitement pushing us on, we visited Pullen Park which we found very pretty. The capital was exceptionally enjoyable, and the museum kept us occupied for about an hour. Our eyes widened and our mouths dropped open at the sight of snakes and fossils and prehistoric animals.

On our return home there were many sleepy and tired individuals. Many of us fell into a dead sleep while others, such as Don Sasser, Buddy Aycock, and Billy Pate, still kept the good times rolling.

The close of the year brought with it many eager-beaver eighth graders. As we prepared for graduation into high school, our minds were really dreaming of four years later.

However, in the fall of 1959, when 36 freshmen made a mad scramble for their classroom, we were glad we were just approaching high school. We were confused and bewildered as to where to go, but after those first few hideous days of trying to remember who went where we made it all right. The boys and girls, much to our disappointment, were divided into two classes. Mrs. Blackman was the boys' homeroom teacher and Miss Bell was with the girls. Janet Davis led the class as president. Diana Pike was vice-president. We closed our freshman year with a trip to Wilson Pool.

As sophomores we were again stuck with Miss Bell. We anticipated with great anxiety our future New York trip. Between our interest in the opposite sex and our necessity to do school work we somehow managed to make a profit of selling Christmas cards to donate to our class treasury. We enjoyed a trip to Carolina Beach to end a wonderful school year, which took us a grade higher along with Brenda Fulkerson, Brenda Mooring, and Nell Langley, who came to Fremont that year.

We thought we knew what work was, but we found we were just beginning to work in our junior year. Mr. Wainwright, whom we will never forget because everyone had a way of getting involved with him, led our class. We griped and grumbled like every class when we found that we had to sell magazines, pull corn, collect tobacco, give dances, and sponsor a Halloween Carnival.

Still being a little on the lazy side, we gave the seniors a banquet at the Hotel Goldsboro which is usually held at Fremont in the gym. However our excuse was that it was something different and time saving. The theme of our banquet was "The Junior-Senior Banquet." Kay Pippin and Billy Pate were class president and vice-president.

Mr. Godwin perhaps had a time with us our final year because we were new to him as he was to us. However, I think our speech in English was his main concern. He still says Don Sasser is the worst speaker in the class. Through this trying, enjoyable, busy, yet wonderful year we experienced many problems in raising enough money to go to New York.

With much frowning and complaining about only two money-making projects, we started to work.

Each of us worked on making money for our trip. We tied tobacco, though we had to teach a few how to do it. We picked cotton and washed cars. We raked leaves—how our backs ached. We also cleaned up beauty parlors and gave many, many dances.

One of our class projects was the senior play, Drums of Death, which was a mystery-comedy quite different from years before.

We were the guests of honor at various parties, all of which we enjoyed very much, especially as long as there was food to be served.

Toward the end of the year we anxiously began to plan for our graduation, baccalaureate, and class night exercises. Our Baccalaureate Sermon was given on May 27 with Rev. N. D. Beaman as speaker. The following Tuesday we had our class night program. On Friday, June 1, we received our diplomas, a most anticipated event.

Our mascots were Tony Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Davis, and Kathy Marie Bass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bass. We think they are two of the cutest and nicest mascots Fremont has ever had.

Jean Toler Summerlin came back to Fremont and joined our class whom she left in the eighth grade.

We said goodbye on our New York Trip—our much awaited goal. Our trip took place on the week of June 4. We visited the White House, Arlington Cemetery, a night club, and many other exciting places. We enjoyed a Broadway show entitled "Carnival." We had a wonderful time sightseeing. It was surely a good way to remember all our classmates and a fine way to end a busy, yet wonderful year packed with fond memories.

Yes, when we started to school in the fall of 1950 we were approaching something new and different. Now as seniors, we will again in the future be approaching something new and different. We will again be apart, but we have many memories that will last us forever, the memories of classmates, friends, teachers, and school.

We sincerely thank each person who has helped us or who has been in any way connected with our class during the years. We are thankful that they were the ones who helped us to become a part of the history of Fremont.

Class Prophecy

About a month ago when I discovered that I was to be the class prophet for our "Mardi Gras" celebration, I wasn't very sure of my ability to foresee into the future. Having made arrangements with her, Madam Farrel consented to be my professional advisor, I proceeded to drive my little Rambler to her home for the appointment.

As we gazed into her crystal ball, the smoky interior cleared and forms appeared. I took many notes and now I will relate to you what I saw.

JEAN TOLER SUMMERLIN, who did so well with her background scream in the senior play, recently opened at the Metropolitan opera. Someone stabs her and she gives her famous scream.

JANET DAVIS MOYE started out starving poor Rollin, but now she has improved so that her cakes and pies are as famous as Betty Crocker's. Have you heard of Moye's Merry Mixes?

JIMMY WHITWORTH, formerly known as Shrimp, has reached great heights, he is now six feet nine inches tall and replaces Wilt-the-Stilt in the basketball world.

BRENDA MOORING, who abandoned her plans of going to Utah, has settled down in Fremont to coach our school's baseball and football team. They have won the State championship for two years in a row.

DON SASSER has made his fortune touring the country as an after-dinner speaker at banquets. His famous opening line is "I say, —, I say, —."

KAY PIPPIN is now happily married and settled down with two children, to Bill Wayne!!!

BUDDY AYCOCK is now serving his term in the state penitentiary as a chronic panty raid expert. When he gets his first parole, he has promised to return all five hundred of these stolen articles.

NELL LANGLEY has finally fulfilled her secret high school ambition, she is a bubble dancer at the Copa Cabana in Las Vegas.

RACHEL CAVENAUGH was always changing her mind and never could settle on any profession; she has been successful as a skin diver, submarine engineer, alligator trainer, lovelorn columnist, lady wrestler and tobacco auctioneer.

BILLY PATE has been voted, the sixth year in a row, Mr. Dream Legs of America. His legs are insured for five million dollars.

You have heard of a walk-in bank and a drive-in bank, now there is a new style, a dance-in bank, owned and operated by FAY STEVENSON, who is following in her father's footsteps.

JEANNIE HOOKS is still a very quiet and thoughtful person, about her counterfeiting ring which the government is investigating.

SUE AYCOCK has been associated with some of the finest families in America. She yesterday married her 13th millionaire, the other 12 very mysteriously disappeared.

BETTY STANCIL has always wanted to have her way. So in addition to her successful business as manager of the complaints department of Holland's T. V. Service she has gone forward as National President of the Chronic Complainers Society of America.

BRENDA FULKERSON, everyone thought, moved to the country for the scenery and the country air, but really the town cramped her ever-expanding liquor operation. She is known as Percy, the second.

DIANA PIKE, known for her calmness and coolness in any argument, is now a struggling, penniless lawyer. The reason she never obtained success was that her rival . . .

I, JUDY HOOKS has become a brilliant, world-renowned criminal lawyer. I have already successfully defended myself against charges of embezzlement, bigamy, and smuggling. It is rumored that I have undertaken to reorganize the Al Capone gang.

Class poem

Before the Class of Sixty-two
Departs along its way,
There are some things to Fremont
School
That we have need to say.

Our twelve long years are at an end
And graduation nigh.
We said hello so recently;
But now we say. "Goodbye."

To all our teachers we hold dear
We say our grateful thanks.
You put up with our lessons, but
How did you stand our pranks?

We do appreciate your work—
All that you did for us.
Always you were so gracious and kind—
You had the right to cuss.

Our parents, in the world, the best—
With tender, loving care—
You've done your very best for us.
From us you got gray hair.

Each day we say our heartfelt thanks
Each day our blessings count
We'll do our best to you repay
Some part of that account.

The school and church and friends and all—
We from you now depart
Where'er we go, what'er we do
We hold you in our heart.

Each night on bended knee we say
This prayer to God above:
Don't let us this our trust betray
Make us worthy of their love.

Last Will and Testament

We the Seniors of '62, supposedly being of sound mind, bequeath these, our most prized possessions, to you, our friends we must leave behind.

We leave to the faculty: PEACE-AT LAST.
To Mr. Godwin we leave our sincere thanks for his patience, and our deepest regret that we couldn't find him a wife.
To the Freshmen we leave three more wonderful years of high school to look forward to. Poor Kids!
We leave the Sophomores a whole summer in which to sponsor dances (without competition) and our wishes for good luck.
To the Juniors we leave a shining example.
BUDDY AYCOCK leaves his looks to Betsy Turlington.
SUE AYCOCK leaves her quiet, shy ways to Judy Newsome.
JEANNIE HOOKS passes on her ability to get along with Mr. Wainwright to Mike Fulkerson.
JANET DAVIS MOYE leaves the privilege of being the only married student in high school to Olivia Jordan.
Since Sylvia Williamson left her good luck with Air Force boys to JUDY HOOKS last year, Judy now passes on this prized possession to Sue Smith.
BRENDA MOORING leaves some books on the library shelves—for a change—so Bill Wayne can check out all he wants.
BRENDA FULKERSON passes on the senior typing work to Carolyn Parrish—with affection.
NELL LANGLEY leaves her capacity to remain cool, calm, and collected to Alice, our secretary, so she can endure the Seniors next year.
DIANA PIKE gives her singing ability to Diane Davis.
RACHEL CAVENAUGH leaves Mr. Godwin in the care of Mary Ann Hales.
KAY PIPPIN gives Betty Ann Peacock her skill in athletics.
DON SASSER leaves some tips on safe driving to Woody Joyner and Bennie Benton.
BETTY STANCIL leaves finally—with N. T.
FAY STEVENSON was going to leave all her boy friends in Bath to some lucky girl—but then she decided to take them with her—Sorry, girls.
JEAN TOLER leaves some advice on bookkeeping and her clean worksheet to anyone who is crazy enough to want them.
BILLY PATE, who has always wanted to beautify our school, leaves a ten-feet by seven-feet picture of himself, to hang somewhere near the front door.
JIMMY WHITWORTH leaves his loud ways to Beverly Peacock.

In witness hereof, we, the class of '62, set our hand and seal on this, the Twenty-Ninth day of May, in the year of Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-Two.

Is that Shari?

Someone looks worried.

We lost him to Aycock.

Going around the "Old Girls" back.

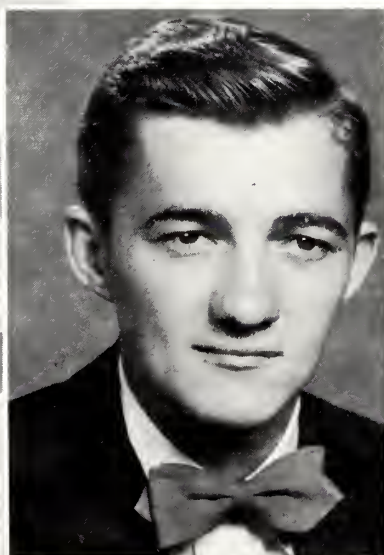

Fay and Terry

Regardez that eyebrow!

That Williamsburg Trip

at a Smoothie!

Going my way?

Jeannie got her date-book
